The social work department has 2 Disability Coordinators. Lynda McDonald and Lisa Appleyard Keeling. We support students who have or need to access a Personal Learning Plan (PLP).

PLPs are prepared by the University Disability Service. Their role is to ensure students are not disadvantaged in their studies as a result of their disability, health condition, or Specific Learning Difficulty, and provide advice about the resources that are available within the University and from external agencies.

All students can request a PLP or discuss with their academic tutors if they feel they want to access support.

Once a PLP is in place we implement the recommended reasonable adjustments to the academic aspect of the student's learning. In terms of practice learning we meet with students prior to placement commencement to discuss their needs and then, with student permission, take this further with the placement.

A student will have a DASS support plan which is shared with the academic advisor.

There is a prompt on PARE to discuss this at the learning agreement meeting and record any adjustments that should be made on placement and the support the student is receiving from the University.

Reasonable Adjustment Plans (RAP) are something we can help put in place to ensure that the students have fair and equal access to their education. The student meets with a Disability Adviser to discuss what barriers may be present during the course so we can understand what support the student might need. We'll explore support strategies that may help the student to access teaching, learning, assessments and other aspects such as placement or field trips.

The RAP will detail reasonable adjustments and any difficulties the student may have relating to your studies. It will be distributed to select University staff so that the course will be made more accessible to the student and it will include advice for both the student and University staff.

We understand that a student's disability may vary from time to time so the support needs may also change. Amendments can always be made to a RAP to ensure it meets the student's needs.

Placement Reasonable Adjustment Plans, these are completed with the student and tutor prior to placement beginning and then discussed during the informal meeting and/or the learning agreement meeting to ensure that any necessary support can be provided and put in place prior to the placement starting.
